ALUMNUS

annual meeting labatt

Alumnus and financial report.

Some seventy Alumnae and Alumni were present at Labatt's Brewery for the 1972 Annual Meeting of the Association. They read and accepted Committee and Event reports, listened to outgoing President Brian Gallery, '57, review his year in office, asked questions of the College President, Very Rev. Patrick G. Malone, S.J., and heard President-Elect Bill Pelton '48 state his aims for 1972-73.

Before, during and after the business session Labatt employees made certain that refreshments were available to all participants and also conducted a tour of the facilities and explained the process of producing their prize-winning beer.

The highlight of the evening was the address by Bill Pelton, which appears here in almost its entirety.

INCOMING PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS new goals: promote enrolment says pelton

"Several weeks ago there appeared in the Financial Postan advertisement for an Executive Director of the Alumni Association of the University of British Columbia. It read in part 'The purpose of the Association is to serve the university by promoting its academic and economic well-being through liaison with the graduates, the government, the public, the faculty and the students and potential students."

SUMMER 72

This is a very definite statementno hedging, no questions about relevance; and what is appropriate to B.C. is equally appropriate in Quebec. The key word is 'serve' and that is what the Loyola Alumni Association aspires to do. Our purpose is to serve

Loyola, and promote its well-being. To some this may seem archaic, sentimental, totally at odds with current values, a goal not at all suited to the cynical judgments of the seventies— and perhaps they are right. There is at least enough validity to their proposition that we have to ask ourselves why? Why we bother? Why we frustrate ourselves? Why we try to serve?

Recently the Director of the Banff School of Advanced Business Management spoke of the international acclaim which had come to the school because of the outstanding achievements of its graduatism in the field of business. He spoke of the international fraternity of Banff graduates, mentioning the way Banff graduates all over the world help each other to get things done. He was proud, pragmatic and selling — and was talking about a 12 week course.

Do our graduates earn no acclaim? What of our international fraternity? Will we as Loyola graduates not help each other? Do we have nothing to be proud of? Do we have nothing to sell? I think we do! And I also think more of us should realize it.

Consider this: In the last two academic years Loyola has produced two Rhodes Scholars, three Centennial Scholars and four Woodrow Wilson Fellows. Neither McGill nor Sir George Williams can equal this record-alone or combined. Only one Rhodes Scholarship was awarded in the Province of Quebec this year it went to a Loyola student.

pelton ``promote enrolment''

Of all the English language universities in Quebec, only Loyola showed an increase in enrolment in 1971-72. The college had 4100 full-time day students, registration in the Evening Division, which started in 1957 with 25 students, totalled 5000 in 1971-72. If Loyola continues to grow, during a period when student population is declining, there has to be a reason, I attribute it to the continuance of Loyola's most cherished tradition - academic excellence. Why else would students come? If Loyola did not provide the type and quality of education that young people want, would they not go elsewhere? So the increased enrolment is indeed significant. It is especially so when one considers that Loyola's future has been in doubt.

But if Loyola can take pride in its academic accomplishments, its fiscal accomplishments are if anything, even more impressive. According to figures released by the Ministry of Education for the 1971-72 academic year, university operating grants in Quebec averaged $2458 per student. Laval received $3237, University of Montreal $3020, McGill $2363, Bishops $1646, Sir George $1256, and Loyola $727 — less than a third of the average for the province. Because of this perilous financial condition, Loyola has been compelled to achieve a level of efficiency which is unrivalled in Quebec education. It has accomplished much and should be applauded for the excellence it has achieved, and commended for the contributions it has made to Quebec and to Canada. We should be proud of Loyola, as it was, as it is, and as it will be - and it will be.

SIR GEORGE UNION

The union with Sir George Williams does not preface the disappearance of Loyola. On the contrary it should create a stronger and more vigourous university. The terms of the union stipulate that each college of the new university will be permitted to preserve much of its essential character and tradition. Our Alumni Association will continue to have a role to play in advancing the well-being of Loyola, and in maintaining its traditions.

However, there is certainly no doubt that the new Loyola, the federated Loyola, will be different than the Loyola we know. But then the Loyola of the forties has disappeared, so has that of the fifties—and the changes roll on swiftly and inexorably. But there is still continuity; a catholic overtone, a Jesuit presence, academic excellence combined with athletic prowess, and the essence of what was Loyola remains. More than that the Loyola of today is more dynamic than the Loyola of the past. The atmosphere is exciting and challenging. More things happen. There is more freedom, more inquiry.

This vital, thriving enterprise is what we hope to serve, but not by raising money. The government grant has for all practical purposes supplanted the gift of the private donor. But this fact does not render the Alumni Association irrelevant.

Since the major sources of college revenue today are government grants and tuition fees, the obvious corollary to this is that student enrolment is the essential element in the survival of any university. Promotion of enrolment therefore, from among the families of our membership, and in the community at large, will be one of our major objectives.

to the vigour with which our members participate.

Because publicity is sofundamental to everything we hope to accomplish, this function has been assigned major status in our list of projects. Likewise we hope to inaugurate a Class Agent type of program so that we have the means to establish personal contact with our membership.

ALUMNI/STUDENT CONTACT

We also hope to achieve an improved and more enxtensive relationship with the student body. As of now, they really do not know us, nor do we know them. While our Student Loan Fund has undoubtedly assisted some students it has produced no measureable or discernable benefits to the Alumni Association or the College. Steppingstones, launched with high hopes, failed to arouse much interest.

Improving communications between our organization and the student body may well be the crux of our problem and we intend to work very hard to bridge this gap. Your directors have thought that as far

A comfortable chat at the annual meeting.

Within our own group we will strive to keep our membership aware of what is happening at Loyola so that the judgments of our alumniare based on facts and not on impressions. In the community we will assist the College in recruiting at the CEGEP level, probably by means of a vocational guidance series, and we may extend these programs to high schools as well.

The subject of enrolment aside, we plan to focus our energies in two directions: our own membership and our students.

For our members we will continue our traditional activities, the Golf Tournament, Oyster Party, The Happening, our Hockey/Basketball night and our alumnae event.

We also hope to develop a cultural and educational program which will appeal to some of our alumni who are not attracted by traditional events. A broader involvement of our membership is intended since the vigour of our Association is related as students are concerned, the Alumni Association represents a vast reservoir of talent and good will, waiting to be tapped, but we have yet to find the way to reach them. Two of our directors will be assigned responsibility for narrowing the gap between us and students and faculty. By this definite assignment we may be able to make our Association available for very useful work among the student body.

As you might expect, the Alumni Association also has financial problems. With assistance from the College Administration they are not critical, but they cannot be ignored. Ours is a deficit operation and it is likely to continue as such for some time. We have several possibilities to consider which would ameliorate the situation, but it will be some months before we are able to make any firm decisions. In the interval, your directors will be addressing themselves to this problem.

golf time again: belle vue monday, sept. 11

Joe O'Sullivan '63, Chairman, and Committee members Mike Green '63 and Dick Vaillancourt '63, promise that this year's annual Alumni Golf Tournament scheduled for Monday, September 11, 1972 at 1:00 P.M. will be well worth your while.

The eighteen holes of the Belle Vue Club should be a test for good golfers and at the same time offer much satisfaction to the less aggressive players.

The Committee urges all Alumni it is a stag event— and their friends to attend the outing. Whether parleyers or bogey breeders, you will be most welcome.

After the trek around the course, golfers will join with fellow Alumniand guests to enjoy dinner, golf prize presentations, and the Special Fund Draw. Incidentally, purchase of the Special Fund tickets should be made as soon as possible. The tickets can be obtained from the Alumni Office or from your favourite vendor.

This year the cost of the event has been reduced substantially. Golf and Dinner for only twelve dollars ($12.00) Return to:

— quite a bargain!

Once again the Tournament, featuring a "Shot-Gun" start, will be on a first pay, first choice of hole basis. Don't be disappointed—send in your foursomes and your cheques or money orders to the Alumni office today.

Remember Monday, September 11th at the Bellevue. In case you are wondering about the meal it is Roast Beef, naturally all the usual refreshments will be available.

Organize now and prepare for the 1972 Golf Tournament.

Loyola Travelling Youth Hostel: Loyola's academic vice president Dr. Joseph Burke "checks in" at the hostel's opening on June 12. Situated in the Student Cafeteria the hostel provides accomodation for 100 travellers nightly over the summer. It has been sponsored by the Federal Government's Youth Hostel program and has the support of the College and the Canadian Youth Hostels Association. Ten Loyola students are operating it.

Informal Dinner: Some of the 60 guests at a recent dinner hosted by the directors of the Alumni Association for the English speaking clergy of Montreal and administrators of Loyola. Left to right: Rev. C. C. Ryan, S.J., Treasurer of Loyola; Rev. S. Drummond, S.J., Chairman of the Board of Trustees; Bill Pelton; Very Rev. Patrick G. Malone, President of Loyola; Most Rev. Leonard J. Crowley, Auxiliary Bishop of Montreal; Des Lartigue and Brian Gallery.

seventy-sixth convocation largest in Loyola's history

Loyola's 76th Convocation, held Saturday, May 27, saw the largest number of graduates join the ranks of the Alumni Association in its history. A total of 964 students graduated: 610 from Arts (which had a majority of women for the first time), 208 from Science, 122 from Commerce and 24 from Engineering.

The smallest faculty produced the top student— 21 year old Geza Joos whose overall average was 91.5 per cent. Geza, whose father is an assistant professor in Loyola's philosophy department, was one of the three summa cum laude graduates. The other two were women Science graduates: Giuseppa Di Paola, 21 and Rosalind Vaz, 20.

Convocation day drew the largest crowd ever to attend such an event at the college. In the morning the concelebrated mass, in which the Most Rev. Leonard J. Crowley, Auxiliary Bishop of Montreal, delivered the homily and was main celebrant, saw the Loyola Chapel filled to capacity.

Mr. Paddy Duder, assistant to the president of Loyola, addressing the convocation audience.

The afternoon ceremonies, held on the South Campus, attracted an audience of 5,000 which included graduates, their families, alumni, faculty, staff, trustess and friends of the college. Opening speaker was Loyola President, Very Rev. Patrick G. Malone, S.J., who spoke of the past year and Loyola's 75th anniversary celebrations.

"To have survived for this length of time is no mean feat in itself and we have quite properly singled this year out as one of celebration." He also noted several events in which Alumni had participated during the year, including the innovative educational experiment of bringing groups of academically gifted students from high schools to the college for a week of study, which proved to be highly successful.

Guest speaker, Dr. Colin B. Mackay, executive director of the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada, spoke of "galloping provincialism" and warned that it was leading Canada on a downhill path to destruction.

"The smug satisfaction of posturing provincialism" could become "a fatal disease" for both Canada and its universities, he said, adding that no province appeared to have escaped the spirit of provincialism.

This had exhibited itself in the declining number of foreign students attending Canadian universities. "If we are not careful enough, then higher education in this country will become so ghettoed that the often-heard student cry for mobility will be but a whimper throughout this land of ours," said Dr. Mackay.

His address was followed by the conferring of degrees and the presentation of major prizes which were awarded to: Gordon Arthur Barthos (Governor General's Medal); Giuseppa Di Paola and Rosalind Vaz (Science Medal); Mrs. Claudette Tibblin (Evening Division Medal); former Student Association president Gordon Clark (C.O.T.C. Medal) and Geza Joos (Engineering Medal). Valedictorian was Maxim Mazumdar who was the driving force in student theatre at Loyola during the past year.

past presidents' dinner guests hear academic vice president

The annual Alumni Association Past Presidents' Dinner was held this year on May 18th at the Loyola Jesuit Residence, and was attended by Jesuits, college administrators and directors of the Association as well as Past Presidents. Loyola's academic vice president Dr. Joseph Burke delivered the main address of the evening which was chaired by Bob Beauregard '60. It was one of the last Alumnus events Bob will be attending for some time as he will shortly be leaving to take up residence in Belgium, courtesy of J. Walter Thompson.

new hall of fame members announced

Dick Irvin, Chairman of the Selection Committee of the Loyola Sports Hall-of-Fame, has announced that four well-known Alumni have been added to the Hall.

They are Keith English '50; Andy O'Brien '31; Dave Pemberton-Smith '56; and George Pigeon '29. Between them they participated in such varied sports as badminton, boxing, football, golf, handball, hockey, lacross, squash, tennis, track and field, as well as serving various teams and organizations as administrators, advisors, coaches, directors, managers and

Keith English joins his brother Herb in the Hall-of-Fame; they are the first brother combination. Keith's career is one of distinction. He started it in 1941 as a bantam, football and hockey player, and progressed through Junior and Senior High School ranks winning All-Star recognition along the way.

In 1946 he joined the College Warriors and after a few years of outstanding play opted for professional football with the Montreal Alouettes. He won the Rookie-of-the-Year Award with the Als and established himself as one of the top ends in the C.F.L. After retiring from active competition, Keith coached football and hockey. At the present time he is Vice-President of McFarlane Son and Hodgson (Ltd.).

Andy O'Brien's name has been identified with national and international sport for some forty years. The Sports Editor of Weekend Magazine, he has covered events around the globe. He is a veteran reporter of Olympic Competition, Commonwealth Games, World Hockey Tournaments, International Soccer, Professional and Amateur Golf, Stunley Cup Play-Offs, World Series, and World Championship Boxing. Andy has written five books on hockey and is a renowned guest-speaker at Athletic get-togethers.

In 1939, he was one of four War Correspondents to accompany the Canadian First Division overseas and in 1962, Prime Minister Diefenbaker KEITH ENGLISH appointed O'Brien a founding member of the National Advisory Council on Fitness and Amateur Sports. Since 1966, he has served as a member of the Selection Committee for Air Canada's "Executive of the Year in Amateur Sport".

In 1967, he received the Candian Amateur Sports Federation Award for "outstanding contribution in the newspaper towards the encouragement of participation in amateur sport in Canada". Way back in the twenties, as a student at Loyola, Andy played Varsity football for three years. He also competed in hockey, boxing (heavyweight class), handball, golf and swimming. He has been a staunch supporter of Alumni activities over the years and has contributed greatly to athletic developments at Loyola.

Another man with an international reputation is David Pemberton-Smith. Dave played a little football at Loyola but was noted for his golf prowess. Since graduation, he has become well-known in Canada and the United States not only on the links but also on the squash courts. As a golfer, he has won the Canadian Intercollegiate Championship, the Loyola Alumni Tournament, the Quebec Junior Laurels, and the Alexander of Tunis Championship.

He was low amateur in the Canadian Open of 1956 and a Medalist in Quebec Amateur Play. As a squash performer, Dave was ranked number one in Canada as a singles player and number two on five occasions. Still an active dedicated squash athlete, he has won many championships including the Canadian Intercollegiate, Quebec Singles, Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, Canadian Doubles, Buffalo Invitational Doubles, and was runner-up in the United States National Doubles. At this time of the year, Dave will be a familiar figure on the Golf courses in and around the Montreal area.

The fourth member chosen in 1972, George Pigeon brought great honour and glory to Loyola during and after his student days. He was an outstanding courageous athlete in the days of the sixty-minute men and a leader on and off the grid-iron and the rink. George entered Loyola High School in 1921, became involved competitively in football and hockey. He capped his Loyola days as captain of the famous 1928 Dominion Intercollegiate Football Champions.

After graduation he joined the Montreal Winged Wheelers of the Eastern Big Four. In 1931, he was a regular on the Winged Wheelers' Grey Cup champions. His leadership abilities plus his great physical strength earned him All-Star berths in 1934, 1935, 1936, and the captaincy of the Montreal entry in 1935.

In all, George Pigeon played eleven seasons in the Big Four and the QRFY. He missed only two games in his entire College and Senior Football career. Now retired George lives at 873 Valiquette Street, Montreal 204, and would welcome visits or hearing from his old friends and team mates.

English, O'Brien, Pemberton-Smith and Pigeon will be officially inducted into the Loyola Sports Hall-of-Fame in early autumn of this year.
